“We have meanwhile set up a process and there are also independent institutions monitoring which objectives of our G7 meetings we actually achieve. When it comes to these goals we have a compliance rate of about 80%, according to the University of Toronto. Germany, with its 87%, comes off pretty well. That means that next year too, under the Japanese G7 presidency, we are going to check where we stand in comparison to what we have discussed with each other now. So a lot of what we have resolved to do here together is something that we are going to have to work very hard at over the next few months. But I think that it has become apparent that we, as the G7, want to assume responsibility far beyond the prosperity in our own countries. That’s why today’s outreach meetings, that is the meetings with our guests, were also of great importance.”

Chancellor Angela Merkel, Schloss Elmau, 8 June 2015

G7 summits are a moment for people to judge whether aspirational intent is met by concrete commitments. The G7 Research Group provides a report card on the implementation of G7 and G20 commitments. It is a good moment for the public to interact with leaders and say, you took a leadership position on these issues — a year later, or three years later, what have you accomplished?

Background

In February 2014, Burkina Faso, Chad, Mali, Mauritania, and Niger set up the Group of Five for the Sahel (G5 Sahel) to foster close cooperation on development and security in the Sahel region. The Sahel countries face challenges such as extreme poverty, conflict, and terrorism and organized crimes such as human trafficking.

In June 2014, the G5 Sahel started the Priority Investment Program (PIP), a USD14.8 billion regional investment program aiming to deal with security and development problems. The first phase of the program is set to be from 2019 to 2021, where 40 priority projects were selected to be implemented by member states to improve defence and security, governance, resilience and human development, and infrastructure. The G5 Sahel leaders then launched the Cross-Border Joint Force (FC-G5S) in 2017 in Bamako to fight security threats. The Joint Force has since carried out several operations.

G7 members have worked with the Sahel region previously. In July 2017, during the Franco-German Council of Ministers, France, Germany, and the European Union, along with the World Bank, the African Development Bank and the United Nations Development Programme, launched the Sahel

The Sahel Alliance is an international cooperation platform that allows donor countries and multilateral organizations to better coordinate international assistance for the Sahel countries. Their actions are guided by principles and priority fields.

More countries have since joined the Alliance. Of the G7 members, France, Germany, the European Union, Italy and the United Kingdom are currently members of the Sahel Alliance. The United States is an observer to the Alliance. In June 2019, Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau confirmed to French President Emmanuel Macron that Canada would seek observer status with the Sahel Alliance. Japan also carries the observer status.

The G7 first referenced Africa in 1980 and commitments toward Africa have risen through the years. During the 2002 Kananaskis Summit, the then-G8 leaders signed the G8 Africa Action Plan as a response to the African States initiative New Partnership for African’s Development (NEPAD). The Plan considered the promotion of peace and security as one of the priorities. Implementation Reports by African Personal Representatives on the Plan have since been discussed at G7/8 Summits. The L’Aquila Summit in 2009 also held a G8-Africa session in which the importance of a credible system of regional system, through the African Peace and Security Architecture and the proliferation of Small Arms and Light Weapons, was highlighted. The G8 Leaders then produced the G8/Africa Joint Declaration: Shared Values, Shared Responsibilities during the 2011 Deauville Summit. The document focuses on three topics: security and governance; economic development and environment; and mutual accountability.\textsuperscript{1417}

On 25 September 2018, during the United Nations General Assembly, President of the French Republic Emmanuel Macron expressed that “the time when a club of rich countries could alone define the world’s balances is long gone.”\textsuperscript{1418} Hence, the French G7 Presidency changed the group format by including partner countries to take part in their working meetings.\textsuperscript{1419} Burkina Faso, which holds the Presidency of the G5 Sahel, was invited along with four other African partners (Senegal, Rwanda, South Africa, and the Chairperson of the African Union Commission) to the Biarritz Summit.\textsuperscript{1420} There, the G7 Sahel Action Plan was declared and again reaffirmed in the Biarritz Declaration for a G7 and Africa Partnership to promote peace and security in Africa.\textsuperscript{1421}

Commitment Features

The G7 commitment is to “work with [those in the G5] to improve and better coordinate efforts to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.” Thus, it is understood that actions need to be between the G7 member and at least one country in the G5 Sahel region (i.e. Burkina Faso, Chad, Mali, Mauritania, and Niger) to be counted for compliance.

“Improve and better coordinate” signals that actions do not necessarily need to be started by the G7 member. Instead, they can simply be actions that build on new or existing efforts by the G5 Sahel member states. These can be through “advancing the progress of or making useful additions” to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security.\textsuperscript{1422} Alternative actions include “bringing different [regional security efforts] into a harmonious or efficient relationship.”\textsuperscript{1423}

Actions need to be related to the security of the G5 Sahel region, where defence refers to “military measures of resources for protecting a country” and internal security refers to the act of keeping peace within the borders of a sovereign state, which is the responsibility of the police force.\textsuperscript{1424}

It is noteworthy that the text of the commitment, “including,” implies that support for structural reforms of the G5 Sahel’s security apparatus should be prioritized and not excluded. Structural reforms are measures that change the way the economy operates e.g. in the labour, product and service markets.\textsuperscript{1425} In the context of regional security, examples can include transformation of institutions’ methods of control and establishment of good governance through electing representatives. Transparency of institutions, especially with regards to their budget, as well as post-crisis recovery are also examples of structural reforms.\textsuperscript{1426}

For full compliance, member needs to provide tangible support to at least one G5 Sahel country on their defence and to at least one G5 Sahel country on internal security. Tangible support can be through funding or implementing new initiatives. The G7 member will get a score of partial compliance if efforts in either or both areas are just verbal declaration of support. No actions toward either of the areas will yield a score of \(-1\).

Note: Actions taken between 13 April and 3 June 2020 have been included in this report but were not included in the version sent out for stakeholder feedback.

\textbf{Canada: +1}

Canada has fully complied with its commitment to work with the G5 Sahel to improve and better coordinate efforts to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 28 August 2019, the Commander of Operation PRESENCE – Mali, Colonel Travis Morehen told reporters that a small team of Canadian Forces personnel will redeploy to Mali for approximately one week in September 2019 to train an incoming Romanian contingent on mission-specific abilities.\textsuperscript{1427} The Department of National Defence has confirmed that this deployment was carried out, and included providing four C-17 intra-theatre airlift flights to assist with the deployment of Romanian personnel and equipment.\textsuperscript{1428} The Ministry of National Defence announced that Canadian soldiers deployed to assist the Romanian forces will end their mission no later than January 2020.\textsuperscript{1429}

On 30 August 2019, Global Affairs Canada committed CAD2.77 million to support the implementation of the Agreement for Peace and Reconciliation in Mali. The department states that the funding will make “the tools for its implementation – Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration, a joint protection force and local police – more participatory, inclusive, and gender and conflict sensitive.” The program aims to meet the needs of local populations in northern regions of Mali. This action provides tangible support to Mali’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 30 August 2019, Global Affairs Canada committed CAD1.59 million to support the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission in Mali, increasing its capacity regarding units responsible for investigations and reparations for victims, its ability to hold public hearings, and a national communications campaign. The Canadian government expects the funding to better equip the Commission “to investigate and shed light on human rights violations committed during conflicts and other episodes of armed violence, including sexual violence and other violations against women and girls.” The program supports the implementation of the Algiers Peace Agreement and compliments Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission of the United Nations in Mali (MINUSMA). This action provides tangible support for structural reforms of Mali’s security apparatus.

On 23 January 2020, Minister of Foreign Affairs François-Philippe Champagne concluded a visit to Mali, announcing “the deployment of 2 police trainers to the Alioune Blondin Beye Peacekeeping School in Bamako, Mali.” This action provides tangible support to Mali’s internal security capabilities.

On 21 February 2020, Global Affairs Canada provided an additional CAD1.8 million to the MINUSMA Trust Fund. The fund provides “support to Malian institutions in areas including rule of law and security institutions, mine action, promotion of national dialogue, regional cooperation, security sector reform, human rights, and the initial Demobilization Disarmament and Reintegration

This action provides tangible support to Mali’s internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 11 March 2020, Global Affairs Canada contributed CAD162,485 to “Conflict Prevention and Mitigation in Sahel Border Regions,” in partnership with the Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue. The project intends to “help stabilize the conflict situation between communities and armed groups in the border areas of Mali, Burkina Faso and Niger.” The project also supports conflict mediation with non-jihadist armed groups and self-defence groups in Burkina Faso and Niger that have close ties with the armed groups in Mali’s border areas. This action provides tangible support to Mali, Burkina Faso, and Niger’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 14 March 2020, Minister Champagne, after confirming the safe discovery of a Canadian hostage in Mali, stated that “The government of Canada will continue to engage Mali and Burkina Faso at the highest levels, and will work with international partners to pursue those responsible for this crime and bring them to justice.” This action provides tangible support for Mali and Burkina Faso’s internal security capabilities.

On 31 March 2020, Global Affairs Canada contributed CAD331,765 to “Arms and Ammunition Management for More Stability in the Sahel Region,” in partnership with the Mines Advisory Group. The Government of Canada states that the project will improve security in the Sahel through “close cooperation with local authorities in Mali, Burkina Faso and Niger to develop and strengthen their capacity to safely manage, store and monitor weapons and ammunition.” This action provides tangible support to Mali, Burkina Faso, and Niger’s internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

Canada has provided tangible support to the G5 Sahel to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

Thus, Canada receives a score of +1.

France: +1

France has fully complied with its commitment to work with the G5 Sahel to improve and better coordinate efforts to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 3 October 2019, France asked a series of European partners to dispatch special forces to various nations in the Sahel region of Africa, including Mali, with the goal of assisting local forces who are increasingly being targeted in deadly jihadist attacks. The additional units would assist in the training of local forces, while also allowing those deployed as part of France’s Operation Barkhane to focus their intent on preventing attacks and pursuing insurgent targets. This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s internal security capabilities.

On 16 October 2019, French and German representatives reaffirmed their shared determination to work together for peace and stability in the Sahel. Representatives from the two countries reaffirmed their full commitment to securing, stabilizing, and developing the Sahel Region and vowed to work in close coordination with the European Union in the launch and implementation of the Partnership for Security and Stability in the Sahel. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 1 November 2019, France and its G5 Sahel partners commenced a 17-day military operation involving 1,400 troops. The campaign concentrated on the Boulikessi area of Mali and the Déou area of Burkina Faso. Carried out simultaneously in both locations with the help of partners forces, the mission attempted to hinder the ongoing terrorist activity in the area and disturb the operations of existing armed groups. The campaign, titled Bourgou IV, led to the seizure of ammunition stores, 100 telephones, 64 vehicles, and more. This action provides tangible support to Mali and Burkina Faso’s defence.

On 4 November 2019, Minister of Defence Florence Parly announced her country’s intention to deploy ground troops to Burkina Faso’s “three borders” area in a matter of days.\textsuperscript{1453} The same day, Minister Parly remarked that the launching of operation Bourgou 4, under the larger Barkhane campaign (France’s military offensive in Africa’s Sahel region), will be paired with the contribution of two local Burkinabe units.\textsuperscript{1454} This action provides tangible support to Burkina Faso’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 12 December 2019, President Emmanuel Macron and Niger’s President Mahamadou Issoufou jointly agreed to postpone a scheduled meeting between the leaders of the G5 Sahel members and their French counterpart set for late December.\textsuperscript{1455} The meeting is now planned for early 2020.\textsuperscript{1456} Aimed at addressing France’s continued military presence in the region and the ongoing battle being waged against jihadist organizations prevalent in the area, the two leaders opted to postpone the event following an attack on a remote armed forces outpost in Niger.\textsuperscript{1457} This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 19 December 2019, Minister Parly announced that American-built Reaper drones, equipped with laser-guided missiles, will see use as part of France’s Barkhane mission in the G5 member states of Burkina Faso, Niger, and Mali.\textsuperscript{1458} While the drones have been used by French forces in the region since 2014 to provide surveillance support to missions, they will only now be permitted to strike targets.\textsuperscript{1459} This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 21 December 2019, President Macron announced the killing of 33 militants in Mali by French forces operating in the country.\textsuperscript{1460} The declaration comes weeks after 13 French troops died in a helicopter crash in the country; the largest single day loss for the French military since the 1980s.\textsuperscript{1461} Thousands of French troops have been deployed in the country since 2013.\textsuperscript{1462} This action provides tangible support to Mali’s internal security capabilities.

On 13 January 2020, President Macron hosted his counterparts from the G5 Sahel members in Pau, France, to examine the ongoing situation in the Sahel region. With the United Nations Secretary-General in attendance, the G5 Sahel heads of state called on the international community to increase its collective presence in the region with the hope of preventing terrorist threats from spreading across borders, safeguarding civilians, and protecting the sovereignty of the G5 Sahel states, with the end goal being the restoration of stabilility in the region – a necessary starting point for further development. President Macron also announced plans to dispatch an additional 220 soldiers to aid with Operation Barkhane. This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 2 February 2020, Minister Parly announced that an additional 600 soldiers would be deployed to the Sahel region to aid in the ongoing fight against Islamist militants in the region. Parly added that the reinforcement would allow for the increase of pressure against the Islamic State group in the Grand Sahara (ISIS-GS). In addition to the French presence, a contingent of 13,000 UN peacekeepers, referred to as MINUSMA, are present on the ground in Mali. Prior to Minister Parly’s announcement, France had an existing 4,500 troops stationed in the Europe-sized region as part of ongoing Operation Barkhane. This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 8 February 2020, the military announced that joint operations between Malian and French forces had killed 30 extremists in Africa’s Sahel region in recent days. The news comes in the wake of a recent statement announcing the addition of 600 soldiers to aid with Operation Barkhane, increasing the total number of troops to 5,100. This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s internal security capabilities.

On 27 March 2020, France, along with 13 other European allies, announced the establishment of a new task force, named Takuba (meaning “Sabre” in Tuareg). The group will assist with ongoing efforts by regional forces to resist armed groups in the Sahel region, adding to the existing presence of Operation Barkhane and the regional G5 Sahel Joint Force. This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 7 April 2020, Permanent Representative of France to the UN Nicolas de Rivière delivered an address to the UN Security Council highlighting the results of the recent Pau Summit and the overall state of affairs in the G5 Sahel region. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

France has provided tangible support to the G5 Sahel to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

Thus, France receives a score of +1.

Germany: 0

Germany has partially complied with its commitment to work the G5 Sahel to improve and better coordinate efforts to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 24 September 2019, Minister of Foreign Affairs Heiko Maas outlined Germany’s goals at the forthcoming meeting of the United Nations General Assembly with respect to the country’s commitments to the Sahel region. Minister Maas stated that Germany regards security, disarmament, the protection of international humanitarian law, and crisis prevention in the Sahel region as crucial topics that must be addressed by the international community. Minister Maas stated that Germany will continue to work toward peaceful cooperation and de-escalation in Sahel. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 7 October 2019, Minister of Defence Annegret Kramp-Karrenbauer met with the Prime Minister of Niger Brigi Rafini to discuss the special challenges that the country faces with respect to cross-border terrorism and illegal migration. Minister Kramp-Karrenbauer stated that German missions in the region aim to prioritize the military issues facing the country as well as the civil ones, such as the education of girls. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 9 October 2019, Minister of Defence Kramp-Karrenbauer visited German soldiers of the Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission of the United Nations in Mali (MINUSMA) and re-affirmed the Bundeswehr’s contribution to education, medical care, and protection in Mali in preservation of the fragile peace agreement reached in the country. This action provides verbal support to the Mali’s internal security capabilities.

On 16 October 2019, German and French representatives reaffirmed their shared determination to work together for peace and stability in the Sahel. Representatives from the two countries reaffirmed their full commitment to securing, stabilizing, and developing the Sahel Region and vowed to work in close coordination with the European Union in the launch and implementation of the Partnership for Security and Stability in the Sahel. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 20 November 2019, Deputy Permanent Representative of Germany to the United Nations Juergen Schulz stressed that all partners of the Sahel Alliance must do more to stabilize the situation during a meeting of the United Nations Security Council. Deputy Permanent Representative Schulz invited other Council members to participate in the security partnership recently launched by Germany and France. This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 26 November 2019, Minister of Foreign Affairs Heiko Maas stated that more will be expected of Germany in addressing the ongoing conflicts in the Sahel region. Minister Maas suggested that...
German military engagement in the Sahel region would increase in the foreseeable future, but also noted that military crisis management was not enough.\textsuperscript{1486} Minister Maas stated that Germany must also work toward “political answers to profound changes to the international system.”\textsuperscript{1487} This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 12 December 2019, the Government of Germany announced the allocation of EUR66 million to its equipment assistance program for foreign armed forces for the period of 2021-2024.\textsuperscript{1488} The program focuses on providing the skills and materials necessary for peacekeeping to “selected African countries” with a particular priority on assistance for Burkina Faso.\textsuperscript{1489} The program will include the allocation of particular military equipment as well as training and advising foreign armed forces in the use of equipment.\textsuperscript{1490} This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence.

On 26 February 2020, Minister Maas declared at the fifty-sixth Munich Security Conference that Europe must do more to promote the “security and stability of our neighbourhood” from Ukraine to the Sahel.\textsuperscript{1491} Minister Maas identified the Sahel region as “a new haven for international terrorism” and affirmed that “nowhere else are Germany and Europe more committed - both in military and civilian terms.”\textsuperscript{1492} He announced that Germany was “prepared to become more involved” in the Sahel region.\textsuperscript{1493} This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

It is noted that Germany supports the efforts of G5 countries and Senegal to cope with immediate shocks through helping them enhance their social protection systems. This support is done through the World Bank’s Sahel Adaptive Social Protection Program. Evidence cannot, however, be found for this initiative from August 2019 onwards and thus has not been included here for compliance scoring.

Germany has provided the G5 Sahel with tangible support to enhance their defense and verbal support to enhance both their defence and internal security capabilities but has failed to provide tangible support for internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

Thus, Germany receives a score of 0.

Italy: +1

Italy has fully complied with its commitment to work the G5 Sahel to improve and better coordinate efforts to enhance their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 5 September 2019, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation Luigi Di Maio reiterated Italy’s support for the United Nations High Commissioner as a priority partner in assisting refugees in the ongoing humanitarian crises and in the management of migratory flows in transit countries such as Niger. This action provides verbal support to enhance the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 14 October 2019, the Government of Italy donated ten ambulances and three tank trucks to the Government of Niger through the Africa Fund in order to “strengthen the capacity of the Nigerian authorities to help migrants and to combat human trafficking.” This action provides tangible support to enhance Niger’s defence and internal security capabilities.

On 6 December 2019, the Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation Emanuela Del Re participated in a meeting with the Minister of Foreign of Niger Kalla Ankoura and declared that Niger and its stabilization is a priority of Italian foreign policy. Representatives from Niger and Italy discussed the economic and social development of Niger as it relates to security and agreed to organize upcoming initiatives in this regard. This action provides verbal support to enhance Niger’s internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 7 November 2019, the Italian Embassy in Niger launched “Pizza for Peace,” a project designed to develop the entrepreneurship of refugee women residing in the country and assist Niger in structural economic reform. This action provides tangible support to enhance Niger’s internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 7 December 2019, President Giuseppe Conte reaffirmed Italy’s sustained action toward the stability and prosperity of the Republic of Chad in a speech at the Mediterranean Dialogues conference. This action provides verbal support to enhance Chad’s internal security capabilities.

On 9 December 2019, the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation allocated EUR800,000 to the United Nations Office for Drug Control and Prime Prevention through the Africa Fund to strengthen the capacities of judicial procedures in the fight against human trafficking in Niger as the crossroads of migrate routes to the central Mediterranean. This action provides tangible support to Niger’s internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 3 February 2020, Deputy Minister Del Re participated in the seventh Ministerial Conference of Dialogue 5+5 that brought together representatives from Italy, France, Spain, Portugal, and Malta with representatives from the G5 Sahel countries to discuss Migration and Development. At the Conference, Del Re reaffirmed Italy’s support to integrate the “different dimensions of security” by promoting an “all-encompassing and balanced approach to … migration” with the “fight against traffickers.” This action provides verbal support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.

On 25 February 2020, Deputy Minister Del Re attended the first General Assembly of the Sahel Alliance. At the meeting, she confirmed Italy’s support for the Sahel Alliance in the challenges that the Sahel countries face with respect to security and development. At the conference, she participated in a meeting with the President of Burkina Faso Roch Marc Kaboré and expressed his “great satisfaction at the recent signing of the defense cooperation agreement which will allow for increased bilateral collaboration for training in the areas of border control and the fight against illicit trafficking.” This action provides tangible support to the G5 Sahel’s defence and internal security capabilities.

Italy has provided the G5 Sahel with tangible support to enhance both their defence and internal security capabilities, including through support for structural reforms of their security apparatus.
